People at CTG

Lili Fan
Visiting Scholar

Specialty

- Government information Management
- Business Modes of Public Information Service

Brief Bio

Lili Fan is an associate professor in Chang’an University, P.R. China. Her research field includes government information management and business models of public information service with a particular focus on Public-Private Partnerships (PPP). Her research will be helpful to better understand and promote the cooperation between government and private or non-government organizations in public information services.

Currently, she is doing research about the business models and the cooperation between government and private sector organizations in the fields of travel information and meteorology data services in China.

Education

- Master of Library Science. Wuhan University, Wuhan, China, 2001-2004
- Bachelor of Library Science, Northwest University, Xi’an, China, 1995-1999